Pentecost Sunday Come Holy Spirit

And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in different tongues, as the Spirit enabled them to proclaim. Acts 2:4

My friend Sara has run a parish women's Bible study for eight years. She doesn't think what she does is a big deal. My friend Colleen has a husband, four adult children, eight grandchildren, a busy day job – and is a daily communicant. She doesn't think what she does is a big deal.

You probably don't think what you're doing in the way you live your faith day in and day out – is a big deal. But it is. We all proclaim differently – in the words we write and speak, publicly or to an audience of two: in the work of our hands, whether it's in creating a masterpiece of art, hugging a grieving friend or assisting at a pregnancy centre. We proclaim in the way God has perfectly suited us to proclaim.

Recognize your gifts, thank God for them – and use them as the Spirit directs.

Holy Spirit, show me how to help you set the world ablaze. Melanie Rigney

The Most Holy Trinity The Exchange of Love

The Lord, the Lord, a merciful and gracious God..

When the serpent set out to trick Adam and Eve into eating the forbidden fruit, he promised they would become like God, having all knowledge and power for themselves. As we know, the very opposite happened, their world shrunk into navel-gazing.

In the perspective of today's feast, we understand why. The serpent had concocted a shabby notion of God for his own purposes. To be like God was to be king of the mountain, to live in solitary splendor, lording over all. For our part we bow down before a God who is the exchange of love between three persons. At the foundation of everything is communion. To be created in the very image of God is to empty ourselves in loving service to others. Fr. Dennis Gallagher, A.A.
